

I was shock to hear that there is consideration to allow cell phone usage aboard commercial airlines. The teaching of etiquette is a dying tradition in America and is non-existence with cell phone usage and conversation. I cannot imagine sitting in a confine space in the air next to an individual who is talking on the cell phone. It is a nature tendency to talk louder on a cell phone and the usage of foul language and yelling is a common occurrence. Furthermore, the disrespectful attitude people have today from the usage of cell phones would be taken to the skies. I only hope that this is taken under heavy consideration.
